

The Director's Note – “The Fruit Bowl”

“The Fruit Bowl” is a piece near and dear to my heart. I know that there's still a lot more I need to learn and improve before I get to work with the big companies, but I would like to one day be able to work with and inspire other passionate filmmakers/artists and story tellers. Since everyone has a voice and a story to tell. Stories are everywhere and they live within us. My dream is to help share those stories with others. To connect and inspire others with the use of our ever changing media.

I want to quickly mention and thanked my team for both helping and sticking with me to the end. For taking time out of their schedule to help me polish and edit my script. If it weren't for them, I wouldn't had the final film product to showcase today. Lastly, my family and friends for encouraging me during this roller coaster journey of COMM WEEK for the COMM FILM FESTIVAL. Especially, to viewers like you, THANK YOU!
